

EPIPHANY PARISH HOUSE IS READY

Will Be Formally Dedicated
Next Tuesday Night.

BISHOP HARDING TO SPEAK

Prominent Clergymen Will Represent Episcopal and Other Faiths. Structure Admirably Arranged for Its Purpose—Some of the Features in New Institution.

With a religious programme, which includes addresses by Bishop Harding and several prominent clergymen of the Episcopal and other denominations, the parish house of the Church of the Epiphany, 7 street, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets northwest, will be formally dedicated next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

Bishop Alfred Harding will make the principal address and will be followed by Rev. Dr. R. H. McKim, pastor of the church; Rev. Dr. Wallace Radcliffe, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church; Rev. Dr. Roland Cotton Smith, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church; and others. A special choir will furnish the music. Following the exercises the parishoners will give a reception to the speakers.

Structure Cost $50,000.

Workmen were busy overtime last week in order to have the edifice completed by next Tuesday afternoon. The structure cost nearly $50,000 and is one of the best of its kind in Washington. The entrances lead into the church proper, one from the handsome reception hall and one from the rectory's room. The music library, on whose shelves are stored the musical accumulations of over fifty years, is furnished throughout in oak, with elaborate desks and comfortable chairs.

The mothers' meeting room, for the accommodation of that guild, is fitted up with large closets, and the kitchen has the most appliances, including a large electric range.

The gymnasium, occupying a floor space of 2,500 feet, is on the second floor and is admirably lighted and fitted with modern gymnastic apparatus. The physical director's office is on the same floor. The running track is at a higher level reached by two stairways. The track laps thirty-three times to the mile, and is six feet wide. On the ceiling of the gymnasium, which is used as an observation gallery.

The concert hall is one of the best examples of its kind in Washington. The large stage with dressing rooms to right and left is all that could be desired. The seating capacity is 450.

Sunday School Convention.

The fifteenth annual convention of the Sunday School Institute of the Diocese of Washington will be held in the church of the Epiphany, October 25, Holy communion, with Dr. McKim, celebrant, will be held at 2:30 o'clock in the morning.

The programme of the convention is as follows: Canon W. L. De Vries, Ph. D., will speak on the "Bearing of Faith." Archdeacon Williams will report on the convention of Sunday schools, held in Philadelphia on October 12, "Sunday school teaching, its real aim and its right method," will be treated by Rev. Charles Clarke, rector of St. Michael's and All Angels, Baltimore, and Rev. J. J. Dimon, rector of St. Andrew's, will lead a discussion.

Mrs. Padgett Gets $600 a Month.

Mrs. Margaret C. Padgett, who is suing her husband, Edward R. Padgett, a newspaper man and magazine writer, for absolute divorce, yesterday was granted temporary alimony of $600 a month by Justice Clabaugh, of the District Supreme Court.

Well, a Wife Must Live.

Dr. James H. Stone, of 1100 Irving street northwest, has been ordered by Chief Justice Clabaugh to pay his wife, Ella M. Stone, $5 per week for her support, pending the trial of her divorce suit.

NATIONAL MUSEUM OPENS FURTHER EXHIBITS TO-DAY

Many Collections of Zoological Specimens Shown for First Time—Skeletons, Casts, and Pictures—Public Welcomed for Three Hours.

NATIONAL MUSEUM TO-DAY

The New National Museum will be open to the public this afternoon from 1:30 to 4:30 o'clock. The B street (north) entrance will be used, as on last Sunday.

The National Museum will this afternoon open further exhibits, consisting mainly of zoology and paleontology, which are located on parts of the first and second floors of the new building. It is expected that the attendance will be larger even than on last Sunday. The rotunda on the first floor will be open, as will the east hall on that floor and the northern part of the west range on the second floor. Part of the zoological and paleontological exhibits, although they are not yet complete or properly labeled, will be displayed in these rooms.

The whole museum corps of taxidermists, preparators, and cabinetmakers have been busy for some time transferring and completing the exhibits. Although some of the exhibition cases are not yet permanently located or the contents finally arranged, the specimens will be of no little interest to the public due to the fine grouping of families and the systematic arrangement of the individuals in the form of a continued series, showing their family relations and development.

About the rotunda will be arranged, temporarily, big game collections, first shown at the St. Louis exposition in 1904, comprising many specimens, including a

SIXTY-FIVE CARS BEGIN LONG RUN

Leave New York for Jacksonville, 1,494 Miles Away.

Philadelphia, Oct. 14.—Sixty-five motor cars, which started from New York this morning on a 1,494-mile reliability run to Jacksonville, Fla., reached this city late this afternoon, completing the first leg of the long journey.

The first car in the line was the pilot, which preceded the others by over an hour. It was a Red car, driven by George J. Thompson, and carrying Harlee Branch, the pilot, and Robert Burns, an assistant.

It was after 4 o'clock, nearly an hour later when the two cars bringing the officials, arrived at Broad and Walnut streets. The first of these carried President Robert P. Hoover, of the Automobile Association of America. In the second was P. J. Walker, the official referee. The cars in the run followed half an hour later.

The cars reached the stopping point in Trenton at 1:20 o'clock this afternoon. With the exception of the pilot cars, which were in advance, the machines came in together. About twenty in line was the car occupied by Gov. Hoke Smith of Georgia, and Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey. In the car with them was Gov. Smith's daughter, Mrs. Ransom.

The tourists stopped for luncheon. Gov. Wilson left Gov. Smith at this point, and Gov. Smith said he did not expect to see him again. He was, however, to be reached Philadelphia. Gov. Smith expects to accompany the tour only as far as Staunton, Va. The tourists remained there about an hour and then departed for Philadelphia.

On Wednesday, October 25, some of them will finish their long journey at Jacksonville, Fla., and the best part of the national reliability tour.

The contesting cars were accompanied by eleven others containing officials of the American Automobile Association, referees, and newspaper men.

Recruit for Alimony Club.

Mrs. Katie M. Krous has filed a cross bill alleging misconduct on the part of Henry I. Krous, who recently sued her for absolute divorce. Mrs. Krous names a co-respondent. Chief Justice Clabaugh granted the wife temporary alimony of $20 a month.

Tiger, polar bear, elk, deer, giraffe, zebra, lion, musk-ox, and rhinoceros, and several other large mammals.

In the southern corner of the east wing are found the exhibits of paleontology or fossils. In the east room under the skylight the prehistoric animal exhibit is found, showing the strange and colossal creatures which prevailed in the ancient periods of the world's history, illustrated by skeletons, casts, and pictures. Some of the specimens representing animals never before exhibited in assembled form or in as complete restoration as these now appear.

On the second floor in the north end of the west range, there are several exhibition series showing the development of the animal embryo. Here there is a well represented series of man cast in plaster, showing the exact color and general appearance of the man in life. Another series on the same floor is that of birds arranged according to their families. There are two exhibits of particular attraction: the series of turkeys and peacocks so arranged as to show the beautiful plumage of these birds, and a group of doves and pigeons including many rare and beautiful varieties, arranged about a large dove-cote in various characteristic attitudes, by the most expert bird-taxidermists in the world.

The District of Columbia zoological exhibit is now open, and though it is by no means complete, it gives one an idea of the fauna of the District—shellfish, or mollusks, fish, insects, reptiles, birds, their eggs and nests, and mammals. Some of the specimens exhibited are now extinct in the District, but as they were collected here some years ago they rightfully maintain their position in the series.

MISS CURTIS IS GOLF CHAMPION

Defeats Miss Hyde by 5 Up and 3 to Play.

Baltusrol Golf Links, Short Hills, N. J., Oct. 14.—Miss Margaret Curtis, of Boston, who has been one of the leaders in women's golf since 1907, when she first won for the national championship, yesterday defeated Miss Lillian B. Hyde, the Metropolitan champion by 5 up and 3 to play.

Miss Hyde's defeat can be ascribed almost solely to poor putting, for in the first nine holes she scored her most experienced opponent. But once on the green, she played like a beginner, and time after time threw away opportunities that would have won her the match. She was, however, steady all the way.

The presentation of medals was made in the clubhouse after the match by Silas Strawn, president of the United States Golf Association. Miss Curtis received the gold medal, and her club, the Essex County Club of Boston, will hold the Robert Cox cup during the coming year.

The silver medal was presented to Miss Byrd and the other two semi-finalists, Miss E. W. Allen, of Oakley, and Miss Dorothy E. Campbell, of Hamilton, received bronze medals.

LIVE MODELS FOR SHOW.

Last Year's Feature Will Be Attraction at Style Show.

The art that lies in high-grade needlework will be shown under the happiest auspices, at the National Style Show at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, on Tuesday, October 24, and 25. About twenty-five models will be displayed, and women will be employed to display model garments, which will be shown in a most attractive manner in prettily decorated booths. The entire exhibition, it is declared, has been planned to express the very essence of refinement.

The many frills and furbelows that go to enhance both formal and informal dress, will be shown. There will be demonstrations of the latest thoughts in costumes.

Some of the most fashionable women in the Capital are interested in the exhibit that Neighborhood House will have in the show at Kauffman's, consisting of hand-sewing as applied to garments, fancy costumes for dramatic performances, and hand-weaving of linen.

SWEETNESS IN PLENTY.

Sugar Bowl Candy Store Has an Auspicious Opening.

The Sugar Bowl Candy Company yesterday formally opened its new and most attractively decorated confectionery store, 211 Ninth street northwest. A very large first-day patronage was enjoyed.

Messrs. John Jennis and Gus Vekrakas are the owners of this new emporium for the sweet-toothed, and bring to its management fourteen years of success in the candy business. This is regarded as a guarantee of the proper conduct of their new establishment. All candies are made fresh daily on the premises. One of the features of the store is the largest stock of foreign chocolates in Washington, and hot and cold drinks of great variety will be served.

An interesting musical programme and fresh cut flowers, as souvenirs, proved an interesting feature of the opening day at the Sugar Bowl Candy Company's store.

A Beaver's Day's Work.

A young beaver in Recent Park Garden, London, was once placed at work upon a tree 12 feet long and 2 feet 6 inches thick just as the town clocks sounded the hour of noon. The beaver began by barking the tree a foot above the ground.

That done, he attacked the wood. He worked hard, alternating his labor with dips in his bathing pond. He bathed and labored alternately until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when he ate his supper of bread and carrots and paddled about in his pond until half-past 5 o'clock.

Ten minutes later, when only one inch of the tree's diameter remained intact, he bore upon his work and the tree fell. Before it fell the beaver ran as men run when they have fired a blast. Then, as the tree lay on the ground, he portioned it out mentally and again began to gnaw.

He worked at intervals all night, cut the log into three parts, rolled two of the portions into the water, and reserved the other third for his permanent shelter. The work done he took a bath.

SLANDERS AGAINST WOMAN REFUTED

Some Facts in Life of Mrs. Story Made Public.

Wide interest is aroused in various factions of the D. A. R., as well as among the general public, by the publication of documents in the November issue of Veritas, a magazine published in this city, which refute the slanders freely circulated about Mrs. William Cumming Story, of New York, honorary State regent of the New York D. A. R., during her candidacy for president general in 1909 and again last spring.

The documents are in relation to Mrs. Story's first marriage, her divorce, her second marriage, and the birth of her eldest son.

It is said by members of the D. A. R. that many of the delegates sent to the D. A. R. congresses of 1909 and 1911 by the total membership of 78,000 daughters were induced to vote for Mrs. Story's opponent, Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, the present president general, as a consequence of the reports concerning Mrs. Story's character, which were circulated for D. A. R. political effect.

Numerous delegates are known to have been dissuaded by the recital of these cables by Mrs. Story's enemies. One of the State delegates was approached by an agent and persuaded to desert Mrs. Story's standards.

The documents published in Veritas prove:

First—That Mrs. Story divorced her first husband, E. P. Price, in New York on statutory grounds, in 1878. Mrs. Story's enemies said that her husband obtained this divorce.

Second—That Mr. Price was dead before Mrs. Story married Mr. Story in 1881, two years and eight months after her divorce. Mrs. Story's enemies said that Mrs. Story married Mr. Price.

Third—That Mr. and Mrs. Story's first child, Allen Lawrence Story, was born September 1, 1882, twenty months after their parents' marriage. Mrs. Story's enemies said that this child was born a few months after her marriage.

The reason the friends of Mrs. Story ascribe to the persistent circulation of this cable which so wronged the motherhood, wifehood, and womanhood of a member of their own organization by certain daughters of the American Revolution was political spite and petty politics and personal enmity on the part of the prime instigators of the cable. It is pointed out in Veritas that no evidence is given that Mrs. Story was a member of the D. A. R. at the time of the circulation of this cable, and that they appear to be the work of some malicious and malignant political agitators in the society.

An investigation fully exonerated Mrs. Scott and her nephew, Mr. Louis Stevenson, of any participation in the circulation of this cable. Mrs. Stevenson is a son of the former Vice President of the United States.

Despite the widespread circulation of slanders, Mrs. Story gathered about her many of the best-known members of the society, who expressed regret that no defaming methods should be used in the political procedure of the society.

Mrs. Story has been presented to the D. A. R. as a political candidate for 1912 by members of the conservative party, and will make the run again, it is understood, for president general two years from now. In this race, it is said, she will be opposed by Mrs. M. H. Brown, a former conservative, who was presented by the Scott faction, but almost immediately repudiated by them at the last congress, and who is now running independently by Mrs. La Verrie, vice-president general from Illinois, who is said to be the candidate of the administration, and by Mrs. T. H. Hyman, a D. A. R. from the South. Mrs. Scott is, of course, ineligible for reelection, having served the constitutional term.

Mrs. Guernsey's Funeral Monday.

Mrs. Mary Guernsey, who was found in her room, 1215 D street southwest, where she had lain dead for two weeks, probably will be buried tomorrow. The body was taken yesterday morning from the morgue and placed in the receiving vault at St. Mary's Cemetery.

Riot and rebellion were engaged in by Princeton, N. J., students on January 15, 1911.

Force School Attracts Children of Diplomats

Guy de Buisseret Crosses the Ocean to Get His Education in Local Institution—City Can Well Be Proud of Record Made by Students Here.

When the school bell clangs in the Force School not only bright-eyed American boys and girls respond to its call, but also sons and daughters of foreign diplomats to this country, children from South America, Southern and Northern Europe, and the Orient. The Washington schools take high rank and the diplomats are glad to embrace the opportunity to give their children the advantage offered here. So Force School has become a world famous as an educational institution.

Although Count de Buisseret, the former Belgian Minister and his family have gone to their new post in Russia, young Guy de Buisseret, the eight-year-old son, will still attend Force School. Young Guy, who is a clever and self-reliant little chap, has arrived in Washington, having made the journey across the land and sea from Belgium by himself. He is now with Gen. and Mrs. John P. Story, his grandparents. Countess de Buisseret, his mother, is a Belgian diplomat, and her children have many of the characteristics of their American mother.

Brilliant in His Studies.

Master Guy de Buisseret is a sturdy youngster and large for his age and is brilliant in his studies. His companions at the Force School have welcomed him back joyfully, and he is also popular with the teachers.

The Force School has had more sons and daughters of famous men on its rolls than almost any other school in the country. No private school can boast of a more distinguished list. Both to its pupils and to its teachers are loyal to the sixth or seventh grade and diplomats and government officials have always entered their children.

Among the most interesting of the pupils at the school at present is the son of the Chinese Minister, the boys and girls of the Secretary of the Chinese Legation, Yung Kwai and his American

AMONG THE CLUBS.

A charming musicale and social season characterized the opening meeting of the Short Story Club at the home of Mrs. T. B. Young, the vice president, Clarendon, Va. The spacious rooms of the mansion overflowed with members and guests. A brief but witty talk was made by the new president, Prof. Hyland C. Kirk, Mrs. Young, the hostess, responding in fitting words of welcome Mr. W. T. Hodges, superintendent of schools for Alexandria County, Va., was called upon and gave an interesting discourse.

The musicale opened with a vocal solo by Mrs. Gertrude Giffin, the daughter of the house, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. W. T. Hodges. Later her sweet voice was again heard in a solo to her own accompaniment. The Thomas Mandolin Club, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. C. Austin Thomas, Miss Cole, and Miss Amy Clement Leavitt at the piano, contributed several pleasing selections, receiving a generous meed of applause. Miss Leavitt, Washington's popular pianist, played a trio of Scandinavian songs, "September Sunset," "Mirage," and a waltz tune, "Over Hill and Dale," with beautiful tone. A "Prelude" Chopin, by Miss Ethel Tibbitts, was also a pleasing instrumental number. A reading from Whitman's "Drum Taps" and "The Charge" was an enjoyable feature, after which refreshments were served. Mrs. Giffin presiding at the coffee urn.

The wit of the members thus stimulated broke forth in humorous stories, in which Prof. Kirk, Harry W. Selah, Mr. White, and Dr. D. T. Birtwell, who narrated a posting incident, his request, were at their best, and the climax was capped by recitations by Mrs. C. S. Macaulay, "The Hayseed Statesman" and "Finnigan to Finnigan." The meeting adjourned in a happy mood, with the feeling that the season was well inaugurated.

The meeting nights for this season will be the second and fourth Thursdays in the respective months.

Patriots' Memorial Chapter, D. A. R., will hold their first "programme" meeting of the season Tuesday, October 17, at 8 o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. George T. Smallwood, vice regent of the chapter, 2105 S street northwest. Dr. M. D. Davidson, superintendent of public schools, will give a talk about educational lines, which will be both interesting and instructive.

The Capitol Hill Literary Society held its first meeting for the winter last Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walcott, 111 Park place northeast. The success of the meeting of the past year was spoken of by Mr. J. W. Davis and Mrs. Blanche Sanborn. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Marion Gould Walcott; first vice president, Aaron H. Frear; second vice president, Mrs. Florence Davidson; recording secretary, E. V. Carr; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Blanche Sanborn; treasurer, Dr. McKee; pianist, Mr. V. Carr; and auditor, Mr. Walcott. Those who spoke were: Dr. McKee, Mr. J. W. Davis, and A. H. Frear. A piano solo was given by Mrs. E. V. Carr. The next meeting will be held on Monday evening, October 23, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Frear, 22 Eighth street northeast.

A full attendance was present at the opening meeting of the season of the Capitol Hill Literary Club, held Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Howard Donath, 14 Fourth street southeast. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. D. D. Gray. The club will study the principal historical events of each century during the year.

After outlining a social programme for this winter, the regular programme was taken up by Mrs. T. F. Burke reading a paper on "The Rise of Christianity." Mrs. Charles Fisher followed with a reading from Bulwer Lytton, "The Destruction of Pompeii." The writings of St. Paul were the subject for general discussion.

The next meeting will be October 25, at the home of Mrs. M. B. Granger, 450 Park road northwest.

HUSBAND MAY TRAVEL.

Judicial Aid Lifted Pro Tem. in Bowen's Case.

To allow Michael A. Bowen to go to Cincinnati to testify in connection with the attempt of his wife, Cora M. Bowen, to set aside a divorce procured in that city, Chief Justice Clabaugh yesterday temporarily suspended the writ, which had prevented Bowen from leaving this jurisdiction.

Mrs. Bowen contends she had no notice of the divorce decree, and says her husband lived with her here after securing a divorce in Ohio.

CHAPMAN LANDS TENNIS HONORS

POKER IN AUTO IS LATEST GAME

Defeats Gould in Y. M. C. A. Tourney.

The Y. M. C. A. tennis tournament has developed some lively matches and the semi-finals in the singles, between Chapman and Gould played this week was a pretty exhibition of net work on the part of the former and placing for the latter. Chapman took the first two sets and the match at 4-6, 4-1. Gould did some clever playing at the net, and played a strong game throughout, but Chapman was so effective at the net that once he had gained that vantage point his opponent seldom succeeded in passing him.

The final between Chapman and Chesley started yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and for two hours probably the best and most interesting tennis, as viewed from the gallery, that has been played on the Y. M. C. A. courts took place.

Albert M. Chesley, who was the runner-up at Silver Bay, this summer, and the winner of consolation in the city tournament on the Bachelor courts recently, proved to be a very strong opponent, playing a very steady, all-around game, and at times executing some neat, effective ground strokes. The first set went to Chapman, after many rallies, at 7-5. Chesley took the next set, his speed was due his opponent for his accuracy in placing. Chapman began the third set carefully, and after breaking through Chesley's service in the third game, was able to win the set handily at 6-3 on account of his superior net work. In the fourth set, Chapman seemed to have matters his own way, running the score up to 3-2, when Chesley proved himself a strategist by taking advantage of Chapman's few weak spots and pulling the score up to 4-6. The next game, after going to down a couple of times, was won by Chapman, and with it the match. Charles T. Chapman, the winner of the tournament, earned his position by hard, consistent work, and, by the way, will be contested by Clifford and Chapman-Chesley. Prizes will be awarded to the winners in singles, doubles, and consolation singles.
